BRIEF HISTORY

The Seychelles competed in the COSAFA Cup for the first time in 2005 when they played in the mini tournament in Mauritius but were beaten 3-0 by South Africa on a pond-like pitch in Curepipe.

The island nation, who were granted membership of COSAFA in 1999, had been excluded from previous editions of the competition because of their failure to send a team to all of COSAFA's youth tournaments, which was prerequisite for participation in the COSAFA Cup.

After a disappointing showing in 2006 and 2007, they won their first-ever match in the competition as they hammered Mauritius 7-0, in no small part thanks to four goals from Philip Zialor, the only player to score four times in a COSAFA Cup match.

It also remains the largest victory in the history of the COSAFA Cup.

However, a draw against Madagascar and a defeat to Swaziland meant they failed to make the quarterfinals.

They lost all three of their matches in the 2009 event to Swaziland, Comoros and Botswana, and were also ousted from the 2013 event after a pair of defeats to Namibia and Mauritius.

The side put up a spirited showing in 2015, earning a 0-0 draw with eventual champions Namibia, but losing matches to Zimbabwe and Mauritius.

They could not build on that in 2016, losing all three of their games, and that pattern continued for the next three competitions. They did not compete in 2021 but exited in the first round in 2022 and 2023.
